

Studio Q | Semester 1, 2023 Information Kit

About Studio Q

Welcome to Studio Q, Q Theatre's performance training program. Studio Q offers a range of courses for different age groups, skill levels and abilities. All workshops are delivered by professional theatre artists at the Joan Sutherland Performing Arts Centre in Penrith.

This kit has been designed to give you an overview of our program. For updated details, including the latest term dates and bookings information, please visit <https://www.qtheatre.com.au/learning> or contact us on creativelearning@penrith.city or (02) 4723 7600 (extension 2).

General Course Outline and Structure

The Studio Q year consists of four eight-week terms, aligned with NSW public school terms. Participants attend weekly workshops where they learn performance skills and make new friends, all while working towards a performance outcome.

Term 2 culminates in a mid-year showing of participants' work. This is an informal "show-and-tell" which gives parents the chance to glimpse behind the curtain and see what participants have been working on in the first semester. This is a free event.

Term 4 concludes with our annual showcase event, in which participants in each course present an original performance in the Q Theatre. Tickets for this event will be sold through The Joan's Box Office.

Preparing for Class: Our teachers provide training in theatre skills suitable for the age group and skill levels of the students. Training is primarily done in class at The Joan, so students simply need to bring their willingness to express themselves, to work with their peers and to explore their creative sides. In Terms 2 and 4, as all classes prepare for the Mid-Year Open Day Presentation and End-of-Year Showcase, students may be expected to rehearse individually at home, in addition to their work in class.

Please note that discretion can be applied in exceptional circumstances depending on each student's needs, so parents and carers are encouraged to discuss any such circumstances with our teaching artists and staff.
